

FATEE'S IRONY SHOWN IN "STEEPLE JACK'S" DEATH.

Braved Death in Midair—A Desperate Struggle With Madman on a Steeple.

From the Louisville Evening Post.

Jack Williams, better known as "Steeple Jack," who was run over and killed by a street car in Cleveland yesterday while crossing the street, had worked on several steeples in Louisville, and was a man of very interesting personality. Williams had met with many accidents in the course of his perilous career, and while in this city told many stories of hairbreadth escapes and harrowing experiences. It was singular that he should have braved death at perilous heights often to be killed at last on solid earth.

The business of working at great heights, as steeple climbers must, has many terrors and works on the nerves of the men who do it in a way that leaves most of them wrecks at an early age.

Steeple Jack was the foremost man in his profession, and had a quiet manner and rather nervous bearing. He was always more or less melancholy and predicted that his death would come to him in the pursuit of his usual work. By the irony of fate it did not, though it was a violent one.

Williams once told an Evening Post reporter that working up in the silence made men start at the slightest sound. Many men have been frightened into dropping from steeples by such sounds as the unexpected creaking of a scaffold or swinging seat. If one man is going to rise or lower his seat he usually tells his partner in a low voice to prevent the shocks of a sudden creaking of rope or timber.

On one occasion, while gilding the cap of a church steeple in Cincinnati, working with another man, Williams had a terrible experience from the shock of which he never quite recovered.

The second workman looked at Steeple Jack with a wild expression in his eyes and suggested that it would be interesting to see which of them could reach the ground first. Williams recognized the fact that his companion had been mentally affected, so he humored him.

"Well, old man," he said, "as soon as we finish we will race to the ground in our chairs."

"No, growl the second workman," I know a better trick than that. We will cut the ropes and drop."

The madman seized Williams by the throat and for several seconds the men fought in a life and death struggle in midair. Both were, of course, tied in their swinging chairs, and the crazed workman tried to cut the ropes of Williams' seat.

Williams reached back and his hand struck the monkey wrench in his tool box. He struck wildly and fortunately planted a blow in the forehead of the other, rendering him unconscious.

He then lowered both himself and companion to the ground. The madman was taken to a hospital, and later to a lunatic asylum, from which he was never released, having become a maniac for life from the silent terrors of midair.

On another occasion Steeple Jack was working on a sliding platform, painting the sixth story of a Chicago skyscraper when the other workman let his rope slip and the platform fell. Williams saw the slip just in time to cling by his fingers to a window ledge. He clung for several minutes, then let go.

He fell six stories and landed on an awning, bouncing off onto the pavement. This accident resulted in a broken leg, a broken arm, a fractured skull and several broken ribs. Williams was in a hospital for six months, but finally recovered. The other man was dashed to pieces.

Williams, in telling of his sensations while hanging by his fingers, said that he felt no fear, only a sort of wonderment as to how long he could hold on.

Charities of Rich Men.

Abraham S. Hewitt makes a sad mistake when he complains that our millionaires are selfish and ungenerous. I cannot, from memory, quote his exact words, but I know that he accuses them of not doing their duty in giving away enough of their income. True, a lot of men die without leaving anything to public institutions, but they are very few when compared with those that leave liberal bequests. And many of them, like Mr. Hewitt's honored father-in-law, Peter Cooper, and worthy Mr. Hewitt himself, give freely while they live; so do the Pierpont Morgans, Carnegies, the Rockefellers, the Vanderbilts, the Goulds, the Sterns, Geo. W. Childs and other Americans too numerous to mention.

He is, liberal in his charities. The public did not hear of them because they were done in a quiet way, secretly it might be said, as I learned by especially looking into the matter some time after his death. It does no good; it does much harm, to charge our millionaires with being niggardly; it makes the working classes dissatisfied with their lot; it angers the poor, and it breeds socialism; besides, it is not true. It should be remembered that our colleges all over the country are handsomely endowed, and our hospitals, libraries and museums of art are in a flourishing condition. For my part, I think our rich men as a rule, do their full duty, and the Rev. Minor J. Savage, of the Church of the Messiah, shares in that view. He said on a recent Sunday:

"I do not believe that at the end of this century the rich people are going to be envied as they are now. I get fierce and wild and angry at communications from people whom I do not understand except by supposing that they are as angry as they can be at Rockefeller, Carnegie, other men of wealth, and for what? Because they have a pile of money and the writers haven't? I can see no other reason. The man who is worth ten or fifteen or a hundred millions of money must use that money for the public good or he cannot get returns for it. I do not want a hundred millions; it would take all my time. I would rather have something else. I think by and by that these wealthy men who have proved their capacity to productively employ hundreds of millions will be looked upon with gratitude by the main body of people."—New York Home Journal.

Idle Plant to Start Up.

Middlesboro, Ky., May 21.—The Middlesboro blast furnaces, which have been idle since last spring, will blow in the last of this week. Fires were lighted in the plant yesterday morning. A large force has been employed at the works since May 1 getting the plant in condition to run, and all the officials of the concern arrived in this city yesterday.

Mr. Davison is Appointed. Washington, May 21.—Ex-Congressman G. M. Davison has been appointed Assistant United States Attorney for the Eastern Kentucky district. Mr. Davison has returned to Kentucky.

SUIT AGAINST A SALOONKEEPER.

Damages Asked for a Baby Whose Father Was Killed.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 19.—The suit for $2,000 damages brought in the name of a baby against a saloon-keeper, in whose place the baby's father was murdered, is on trial in the Circuit Court. Wesley Neece, son of Wesley Neece who was killed by Dode Carrington in Dan Markle's saloon at Grant, two years ago, is the plaintiff, the suit being brought by a guardian, and it is alleged that the plaintiff, who was not born until two months after the father's death, was deprived of a father's care through the negligence of the saloon-keeper. The father and his uncle also named Neece, were in the saloon when Carrington came in. There was a renewal of an old quarrel, and Carrington began shooting, killing both men.

Kentucky Universals Adjourn.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 19.—The State convention of Kentucky Universals that has been in session here since Thursday, closed its session tonight with a sermon by Rev. Dr. Q. A. Shinn, of Illinois, the general missionary secretary of the church. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Rev. H. C. Brackett, of Hopkinsville; Secretary, Miss Fairleigh Bowler, of Crofton; treasurer, B. F. Johnson, of White Plains. The next meeting will be held at Crofton, next October, at which time the handsome new church, being erected at that place, will be dedicated.

The World for Americans.

The Weiner Allgemeine Zeitung, which, we are told, is sometimes inspired by the Foreign Office of Germany, declares that the Americans are preparing a bold extension of the Monroe doctrine, which "no longer means America for the Americans, but America and Europe for the Americans." This is not the Monroe doctrine, but with an amendment substituting "the world for Europe," it may be considered a doctrine which we are prepared to live up to, so far as our trade is concerned.—Courier-Trade.

NEW REUNION MUSIC.

Confederate March is Out and is Attracting No End of Attention.

A new piece of reunion music has been published O. K. Honck & Co., of Memphis and Little Rock. For originality and brilliancy it cannot be excelled. It is called the "U. C. V. March," a two-step, composed by Theo. H. Northrup, and dedicated to the United Confederate Veterans. From a musical as well as an artistic viewpoint this production, issued especially for the coming reunion, is a masterpiece, and one that will live in the memory of those who hear it from scores of bands and orchestras here during the great gathering. The contrast of the brilliant catchy first part, with the sweet sadness of the memories of the great tragedy recalled by the conclusion, is where the composer has shown his art.—Memphis Evening Scimitar, May 13.

Mr. Davison is Appointed. Washington, May 21.—Ex-Congressman G. M. Davison has been appointed Assistant United States Attorney for the Eastern Kentucky district. Mr. Davison has returned to Kentucky.

LOCOMOTIVE BLASTS.

Several of our railroad boys were summoned to Henderson this week to attend court. They were wanted as witnesses in the Lockett case, and it was continued until the next term of court.

A Louisville & Nashville fireman by the name of Conway became greatly enraged by the action of a neighbor, and using his Winchester, shot gun and a pistol, three persons were soon cold in death.

Louisville & Nashville stocks still continue at a high notch, and so does their business show a continual increase.

Conductor Johnson is back from a brief visit to the Buffalo exposition. He says it is yet in an uncompleted condition and it will take some days hard work before things are in prime order, but the crowd is large.

Brakeman James McCully lost a few trips last week on account of sickness, but is now at work.

Conductor Moody has returned from his wedding tour and is again back on the Providence run, receiving the congratulations of his hosts of friends.

Section Foreman Charles Henry has been called to St. Louis by the serious illness of a brother.

The railroad company now has a ditching gang here, straightening out the creek for the benefit of their property.

Not only does Engineer Will Rowe believe in pulling the steam throttle wide open when necessary, but it is said since he has been elected Mayor of Howell, Indiana, he also runs the town wide open, if the public so demands.

One fare for the round trip will be given those who wish to attend the Elk's Street fair at Henderson next week.

Former Section Foreman Downey is now here following the carpenter's trade, which he considers preferable to working a crew of new men on a section.

Why is it that Walter Wright carries his fish bait in a little hand grip? People think it looks suspicious.

Chief Engineer Kelly is now making his rounds over the Henderson division this week.

Operator James Cravens has gone South in search of work.

Washington, May 20.—Doctor Newell Dwight Hills, pastor of Plymouth Church, in Brooklyn preached the funeral of Mrs. Lyman J. Gage today. He had to take a thrilling ride from Maine to get here in time. He was taking a short vacation in the woods of Maine when he learned that it was Mr. Gage's wish that he should conduct the funeral services.

He hastily made preparation to reach Washington at the appointed time. Mr. Hills was in Rumford Falls, a small town, where transportation facilities were so limited that he could not reach Washington in time if the regular trains were used. He communicated with the railroad officers who placed a special locomotive at his disposal. Fifty-eight miles covered at this engine at the rate of a mile a minute over the crooked rough track of the Maine Railway. At one point the track was in such condition that it was not deemed safe to send the locomotive back. The engine was taken on a hand car and four section hands worked the levers at such a rate that he sped for twenty miles on his man-propelled car at a rate of thirty miles an hour. Another engine covered the last end of the bad stretch of track and in this the race was continued. Dr. Hills caught a train in Boston, on which he reached Washington an hour before the funeral services began.

A Railroad Sermon. Rev. John E. Green, who is known as a "railroad evangelist" from the fact that he was an engineer for several years as a minister, came to St. Louis a few days ago. Last night's sermon showed the evangelist's familiarity with the technical terms of railroad management, and he entitled his discourse a "railroad" sermon, taking as a text Heb. xii, 1-2: "Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith."

"The text as a whole," began Mr. Green, "is simply an exhortation to run. In detail it teaches why to run, how to run and where to run, then encourages us with present help and a glorious hope. I shall attempt a practical exposition of this passage by the use of lessons and illustrations from railroad life and work. In doing this I would lead all to a better life; not only so, but would enlist sympathy and prayers in behalf of the great army of railroad men in the country—yes, army, for their name is legion; they are many. There are nearly nine hundred and thirty thousand actual employees. Taking their families into the count we have, I presume, more than one-twentieth of our population. We are nearly a nation of railroaders. I don't think we are any the worse for it. The healthful discipline of the almost perfect regime of railway systems develops just those characteristics which go to fit men for their responsibility as American citizens. Some years ago, Gen. Sherman said: 'If ever there be another war in this country, the best soldiers will come from the ranks of railroad men.' The general knew the effect of discipline."

"I might speak of the faith of that man who runs by orders, regardless of all dangers. Then it is worth while to mention the fellow-feeling among the boys. Call it classish, if you will, it is very much like brotherly love. Finally, at this point, let me speak of that disposition on the part of a railroad man to do what any other man on the road has done. If one engineer pulls twenty loads, another fellow will do the same or 'monkey with the pop' at the risk of his job and life. If one crew makes a fast schedule, another will make it or have every box blazing. This disposition is apparent to the first glance of the text. 'Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about by so great a cloud of witnesses.' These witnesses are they who have made the run."

GOVERNMENT CURIOS

SOME INTERESTING DEPARTMENTS
AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Rare Collections From the Smithsonian Institution, Living Exhibit of Indians, an Agricultural Museum and Models of Warships.

As an appreciation of half a million dollars made by the Government for the buildings to contain the Government exhibits, as well as for the exhibits themselves, the display at the Pan-American Exposition will be of no ordinary standard.

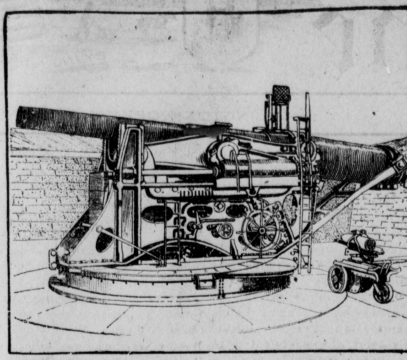

The collection from the Smithsonian Institution will be very large and of great interest, as it will demonstrate the scientific progress of the country and the results of its recent explorations, accompanied by portraits and models of various kinds. The groups under the Department of Anthropology in the Museum will be of particular value both from scientific and artistic standpoints. Some already completed groups of the Patagonians, the Eskimos and the Sioux, done by skilled artists and scientists. The sculptor D. B. Leach has had several of them in hand, and they present the most interesting and lifelike study of character, manner, customs and dress of the various peoples they portray. The Natural History display, also under the National Museum, will be excellent, while all objects illustrative of the natural resources of the country and their utilization not covered by other departments or exhibitors will be exhibited.

The Living exhibit of the Six Nations, now in preparation by the Bureau of Ethnology, will be especially unique. Representatives of all the tribes now in the country will be brought to the Exposition. The historic old council house of the Iroquois will be reproduced in bark by the Indians, who have gathered and prepared the material themselves. At the Exposition they will follow the customs of their early ancestors in making weapons, tools, utensils, dolls and kuleknacks. Corn will be ground in stone mortars 300 years old, and bread will be made in the crude way known to the Six Nations as they learned it in time immemorial. For the time being the Indians will discard what civilization has brought them and live in the wigwags as their ancestors lived, ready for the battle or the chase. Interpreters will be provided so that the public may talk with the Indians who do not understand English. Their various festivals will be celebrated with the customary dances and weird ceremonies.

Under the Department of Agriculture there will be a museum of cereals, tubers, animal and vegetable fibers. Illustrative of distribution, the effect of transportation, of changes of soil, climate and altitude and showing departmental methods of study and treatment. All exhibits of interest and concern to those engaged in agriculture, horticulture and live stock industries will be gathered and arranged by the following bureaus: The Bureau of Animal Industry, Weather Bureau, Division of Entomology, Division of Ornithology and Mammalogy, Botanical and Horticultural Divisions and Divisions of Forestry, Chemistry, Statistics and Experimental Stations.

The State Department will illustrate the workings of the Diplomatic Bureau, Consular Bureau, Bureau of Statistics, Bureau of Accounts and a number of other divisions of the department. An exhibit of historical archives and letters of great men will also be made under the auspices of the State Department.

Among the exhibits collected by the Treasury is one of a lighthouse in full operation, with models of lighthouses showing styles of construction; a coin stamp in operation, showing the coin-department will also construct a life saving station upon the shore of Lake Erie, showing all modern devices, including a lifeboat and a surfboat, with captain and crew of ten men, who will give exhibitions daily, illustrating the actual operations of all the devices for saving life along our coasts.

All of the portraits of the Attorney Generals from 1789 to the present time will be sent on by the Department of Justice, together with photographs of other famous lawyers and judges. Documents showing important periods in the history of the United States, departmental publications and a number of old lawbooks will also be sent. One special feature of interest under this department will be the photos and views of state prisons and prisoners under the modes of employment and discipline of prisoners.

The Postoffice department will have a large space at this Exposition than it has ever occupied at any previous exposition in this country—5,000 square feet. Models of all the various models of mail transportation employed in this country and our newly acquired territories will be exhibited, and these will take up the main part of the exhibit. They will include models of domestic and international mail steamships, railway postal cars, mail wagons, pneumatic mail carriers, a model of the overland coach, a figure of the "Tony Express" and large models of rural collection and distributing wagons. In addition, there will be an array of stamps, envelopes and cards, domestic and foreign, with models of Cuban, Porto Rican and Philippine mail carriers as they were under Spanish rule; paintings, photographs and pictures illustrative of their participation in all countries, as well as a large and curious exhibit from the Dead Letter Office and a "Model Office" giving a complete view of the operation of postoffices, where mail for visitors will be received.

Under the Department of the Interior will be exhibited from the Geological Survey, with particular reference to the mineral products of the States, and from the Bureau of Indian Affairs demonstrating the educational work of the Government among the Indians. The special features of interest under this department will be exhibits from Alaska, showing the wonderful development of gold mining, the fish, fur, oil and timber industries, as well as minerals and curious sections of formations from our national parks.

The Navy Department will make exhibits of models of men-of-war, including battleships, monitors, protected and unprotected cruisers, gunboats (including the dynamite gunboat Venturus), mine, torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers. One of the most interesting of these will be a nickel plated model of the submarine boat Holland. The victorious fleets at Santiago and Manila will be separately grouped. The visitor will be able to examine close at hand such interesting objects as rapid fire guns of numerous designs, Gatling guns, rifled cannon of various calibers, torpedoes, gun carriages, shot ing battleships, monitors, protected and unprotected cruisers, gunboats (including the dynamite gunboat Venturus), mine, torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers. One of the most interesting of these will be a nickel plated model of the submarine boat Holland. The victorious fleets at Santiago and Manila will be separately grouped. The visitor will be able to examine close at hand such interesting objects as rapid fire guns of numerous designs, Gatling guns, rifled cannon of various calibers, torpedoes, gun carriages, shot and shell of all kinds, models of powder used in modern naval warfare and the thousand and one equipment articles that make up the outfit of a modern man-of-war.

The transportation and arrangement of all these exhibits are under the board of management of the committee also charged by act of Congress with their selection and purchase, and which is composed of the following members: J. H. Brigham, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, chairman; W. H. Michael, Department of State; W. H. Hille, Treasury Department; Captain Peter C. Harris, War Department; Frank Strong, Department of Justice; John B. Brownlow, Postoffice Department; R. F. Peters, Navy Department; F. W. Clarke, Department of the Interior; F. W. True, Smithsonian Institution and National Museum; W. J. C. Bayard, Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries; C. H. Verrill, Department of Labor; W. C. Fox, Bureau of American Republics; W. V. Cox, Secretary; W. M. Geddes, Disbursing Officer; John M. Middle, Assistant Secretary; R. L. Stone, Clerk.

A special committee was appointed by this board to arrange for exhibits from the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Cuba, Alaska, the Island of Guam and our newest possessions, Tutuila and Niunau. This work is well advanced, and unique and instructive exhibits of a most extensive variety will be displayed.

THE FORESTRY EXHIBIT.

Government Will Make a Splendid Display of the Forests.

The United States Government Forestry exhibit at the Pan-American Exposition will form a division of the important display to be made by the Department of Agriculture. It will consist mainly of a photographic display illustrating the relation of agriculture to forestry, supplemented by maps and sections of commercial timber trees from the Appalachian Mountain region.

The photographic display will embody sixty framed bromide prints enclosed by photographs, together with twenty colored and uncolored transparencies.

The bromide pictures range in size from sixteen by twenty-four to twenty-four by thirty inches, and the transparencies are from three by four to six by ten feet.

The subjects to be illustrated by bromides and transparencies comprise briefly the various methods of lumbering, their effects on forest production and on the adjacent agricultural lands, the size, quality and character of the forest land and the relation of such denudation to the flow of water in streams and the supply of water for irrigation will be fully shown. The principal types of trees and forests will be illustrated to show the size and lumber production of forests occupying agricultural and nonagricultural lands. The value of preserving certain types of protective forests on watersheds for the improvement of water important to adjacent large areas of agricultural lands will also be illustrated. A special feature of the photographic display will be the illustration of individual trees of the mammoth Bigtree, the Giant Red Fir, White Fir and the Sugar Pine of the California Sierra forests by colored transparencies six by ten feet. It is interesting to state in this connection that these transparencies are the largest ever made. Typical agricultural valley lands in the East and West will be illustrated on the same scale, showing the special protective agencies of natural adjacent mountain forests and planted shelter belts of forest trees. The region and the subject from which these illustrations were taken are representative of the principal agricultural and forest sections of the United States.

Fourteen colored maps of the United States will show the distribution of the principal forest types and species, the distribution of rainfall in relation to that of forest areas and in connection the location of State Experiment Stations.

Nineteen large slabs, four feet high and six inches thick, with bark attached and one surface polished, show the size, quality and character of the commercial timber trees of the Appalachian forest region.

The Government Forestry exhibit will be under the immediate supervision of Mr. Gifford Pinchot, the Chief of the Division. He is a graduate of Yale, has traveled extensively and has pronounced the exhibit that has never been shown in this country before.

WHY MRS. PINKHAM

Is Able to Help Sick Women When Doctors Fail.

How gladly would men fly to woman's aid did they but understand a woman's feelings, trials, sensibilities, and peculiar organic disturbances.

Those things are known only to women, and the aid a man would give is not at his command.

To treat a case properly it is necessary to know all about it, and full information, many times, cannot be given by a woman to her family physician.

Mrs. G. H. CHAFFELL.

Mrs. Chaffell, who cannot bring herself to tell everything, and the physician is at a constant disadvantage. This is why, for the past twenty-five years, thousands of women have been confiding their troubles to Dr. Pinkham, and whose advice has brought happiness and health to countless women in the United States.

Mrs. Chappell, of Grant Park, Ill., whose portrait we publish, advises all suffering women to seek Mrs. Pinkham's advice and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as they cured her of inflammation of the ovaries and womb; she therefore, speaks from knowledge, and her experience ought to give others confidence. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is absolutely free.

NOT GUILTY.

Deputy Sheriff John T. Barnett and James Lester Acquitted.

A verdict of not guilty was returned by the jury in the trial of Deputy Sheriff John T. Barnett and James Lester against whom an indictment was returned by the last grand jury charging them with intimidating union men. It will be remembered that Barnett and Lester went to Barnsley one morning early and prevented a crowd of Union men and agitators from interfering with the progress of miners going from Earlington to Barnsley to work at their usual places in the mine at the latter place.

The Passing of the U. M. W.

The U. M. W. in Hopkins county has almost become a thing of the past and it is a source of deep pleasure to note the space in front of the depot where the agitators were wont to congregate and emphasize their eloquent effusions with wildly erratic gestures is once more clear and open to the traveling public. Over the hills and dales of old Earlington where, only a short time since, the wild and savage U. M. prowled with evil intent, with a bottle of mountain dew in one pocket and a gun in the other and ever and anon would shoot several holes in the atmosphere and whoop, all is quiet and peaceful, and naught is heard save the song of the bank mule and the lay of the industrious hen as they go to their daily avocation.

The U. M. W. came and they also saw, and what they saw kept them from conquering. They saw 2,000 sober, industrious, contented men who were moving along the even tenor of their way. They saw happy homes built up by the fruits of industry. They saw the most contented and happy lot of miners on the face of the earth and all of them eating three square meals per diem, and in the face of all these facts they had the nerve and monumental gall to ask them to come out and join the U. M. W and eat beans with them.

There is no doubt but the U. M. W. is a good thing to let alone. They have fought a good fight in Hopkins County, but they did not keep the faith. They also fought the St. Bernard Coal Company with a persistence worthy of a better cause, but their fight was hopeless and they are surely passing away. No more will the bar keeper in Madisonville dish out bug juice and tanglefoot to them at 10 cents per drink for they are going where the woodbine twine and their swift feet will soon be making pigeon-toed tracks in the ever shifting sands of eternity.

Henry G. Jones returned Friday afternoon from the Philippines. He was not expected until Monday and his home-coming was hailed with much joy by his mother and other relatives. During his three years' service in the Volunteer Army he has visited Cuba, the Philippines and various points in the United States, had rose to the rank of First Sergeant. He hasn't had a day's sick and is looking fine.

AN INTERESTING EVENT.

President McKinley Reviews Nearly Fifty Thousand San Francisco School Children.

LITERALLY RODE ON BEDS OF FLOWERS.

The President Responded to a Call for a Speech by Extolling the Advantages of an Education and the Ambition to Pursue One—A Visit to the President and Gen. Shafter.

San Francisco, May 22.—President McKinley yesterday reviewed nearly fifty thousand school children of this city. Both sides of Van Ness avenue from Jackson to Market streets were lined with cheering and enthusiastic children as the president and members of his party and local officials in carriages were driven from Jackson to Market and back on the avenue to Jackson. The president was the recipient of a continuous ovation.

Almost every child had been provided with a good-sized American flag, and their voices and flags were worked in union. Each little girl wore white, and most of them had red sashes. Thousands of youngsters had gathered large banners which they thrust at the president as he passed along. In some cases every pupil from a certain school carried a bouquet of the same variety and color of flowers. Some classes carried the flowers in the street that the president and his party might literally ride among the roses.

President McKinley rode with his hat in his hand, bowing and waving from right to left, and continuing to receive the cheering and waving of the children. The residences were decorated with hunting and flags and the school banners of silk, bearing the names of every school in the city, were conspicuous objects along the line of review. Half-way between California and Sacramento streets the president's carriage brought up and the other conveyances came to a standstill.

"Speech, speech," rang out along the avenue, and the children swarmed about by the thousands. President McKinley sat in his carriage, reaching down and shaking their hands for several minutes. He finally arose and was greeted with cheers. The president spoke briefly, saying in part: "I desire a short moment to express the pleasure which has been given to me to meet the 45,000 school children of the city of San Francisco. It has given me an introduction into the countless homes of your great city, and has permitted me to witness the sunshine and contentment of young people living in this number of the city. I know of no richer possession than great scholarship, no nobler ambition than to acquire it. We can not all be great scholars, but we can all have good scholarship. I want to assure you young people that there is nothing so essential to your advancement and success in after life as a good education."

Those of us who have battled in the rivalries and contentions of boy world could go back to our youth and school days, we would embrace cheerfully our neglected opportunities and pursue them with industry and delight. If the testimony of the native men of San Francisco and of the country could be taken it would be uniform in the declaration of the ennobling nature of the education which they have received from scanty mental training in youth.

"Nothing has given me more pleasure in my long trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific than the scene which we have witnessed here this afternoon [Applause]—every child waving the flag of our faith and our hope and every little heart filled with the love of country. [Great applause.] With an army for liberty and union and civilization. [Great applause.] Why, we have in the public schools of the United States four-fold more children than there were people when this government was founded [Applause], and all of them proud of their country and all of them meaning that when the time comes for them to take the responsibilities of administration they will be prepared to do their duty and pass along this free government with ever-increasing virtue, intelligence and patriotism. [Enthusiastic applause.]"

"I thank you and wish for all of you the realization of every worthy ambition. [Great applause.] After reviewing the school children President McKinley and his party drove to the residence of Gen. Shafter and members of his staff were on hand to welcome the commander-in-chief, and he was escorted about the grounds and shown the camps where thousands of volunteers going to and coming from the Philippines have been quarantined, as well as the camps of the regulars.

PERUNA TONIC

MRS. ELMER FLEMING, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

MRS. C. NICKEL, HEBRON, NEB.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail."

Mrs. C. Nickel, Hebron, Neb., writes: "I suffered from weakness for ten years. The least exertion caused me pain in the middle of my chest and difficulty in breathing. When I would awake in the night my heart would palpitate so that I often could not sleep. I took Peruna and now I can do all of my work easily without getting short of breath."

"Peruna is the best medicine for me. It strengthens my nerves. It is just what I need. As long as I use Peruna I do not know anything about weakness. I have never found a medicine that makes me feel so strong and vigorous as Peruna. I shall always keep Peruna in the house. It ought to have a place in every home."

HOW PERUNA MAKES STRONG NERVES.

To enrich the blood is to cure nervousness. Diseases of the nervous system call for more blood and better blood. Peruna answers this call by giving the system a perfect supply of pure red blood. Thus it is that Peruna is a natural tonic. It does not temporarily stimulate the nervous system, but permanently invigorates it. Peruna regulates the supply of blood to the various parts of the system. When one part has more blood than it ought to have, another part is deprived of its natural supply of blood. This sets up all sorts of functional irregularities so common to people who spend much time indoors. Peruna cures these affections by regulating the supply of blood and giving to each part of the system exactly that portion of the blood to which it is entitled.

By producing a natural appetite, correcting digestion and regulating the supply of blood in the system, Peruna removes the cause of a thousand and one maladies very common in warm weather.

The fatigue and languor of hot weather is directly due to impoverished blood. This condition prepares the way for the advent of almost any disease. Peruna protects the system against the ailments of summer by fortifying it with a regular supply of the best blood.

WEST VIRGINIA TO ENFORCE THE LAW.

Husbands Failing to Provide for Families Will Be Punished.

Moundsville, W. Va., May 21.—A new law went into effect in West Virginia yesterday, and already it is bearing fruit. It was secured by the State Humane Society, and provides severe penalties for able-bodied men who neglect or refuse to provide for their wives and families. The State Humane Society officers are entrusted with its enforcement.

In this city, last night, in Justice Pierce's Court, James Marshall was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness, and when Humane Officer Echols presented the additional charge of refusing to support his family he was sent to jail for six days.

In Wheeling there are five cases to be tried on the same charge, all brought by Humane Officer Echols. Reports from Huntington, Charleston and Parkersburg are that the humane officers in those counties are equally active, and it is thought that delinquent and idle husbands will soon all be in jail or driven from the State.

Two or three new men had come to Monarch mines that day and it is supposed the dynamiters thought these men were in the boarding-house. FLETCHER BROWN

Meets His Death by Shock from Lightning, Received While Talking Over a Telephone.

Mr. Fletcher Brown, a young farmer of the Reahus neighborhood in Hopkins county, met his death in a sad and unusual way Monday morning, shortly after eleven o'clock. He was standing at the telephone conversing with some one, and was struck by a bolt of lightning, which killed him instantly. The telephone line over which he was talking is a local one erected by some of the farmers of that vicinity for their own convenience, and while it serves their purpose, hasn't all the safeguards of a modern telephone, hence the accident.

Mr. Brown was an exemplary young man and a prosperous farmer. He has been married but a short while and the sympathy of all goes out to the young wife in her sad bereavement.

Mr. Brown has visited Earlington a number of times and his friends here were much grieved to hear of the sad accident.

Toler, canst thou dream.

Higher heritage than Kings
Hast thou.
Canst thou read, in star or weed.
Answer to thy heart's deep cry?

So satisfy.

Though the tears come streaming,

ONLY SIX JURORS

Impanelled in the Lindle Case When Court Adjourned.

MOTION TO QUASH INDICTMENTS.

The case against Lindle and others indicted for shooting and killing William Cook and Henry Taylor in the riot of marching miners near Carbondale, was called in Judge Nunn's court at Madisonville Monday.

A number of witnesses for the defense were absent. The attorneys for the defense moved to quash the indictment, setting up several reasons, among which was that the indictment was not properly found and returned; that the grand jury was not properly qualified, and that the names of some material witnesses who had been before the grand jury were intentionally omitted from the foot of the indictment.

The court overruled the motion to quash. The defendants offered a general demurrer to the indictment. This was overruled. Exceptions were noted on all these points.

The defense then prepared affidavits setting forth the testimony of absent witnesses and showing reasons for a continuance. Upon a hearing, a portion of the testimony contained in the affidavits was admitted as evidence and the case ordered to trial. This decision was reached Tuesday afternoon. The court had previously sent deputies with warrants for the arrest of missing witnesses, and several were brought in who were taken in their fields and conveyed to Madisonville without delay.

The names of some 100 additional jurymen were drawn after the regular panel had been exhausted and deputies were sent out to hunt them up. Yesterday was consumed in examining jurors, with the result that six had been impanelled when the court adjourned.

Seeds.

Biliousness and constipation are seeds out of which spring many of the serious diseases that all afflict the human body. Sound judgment would demand the immediate removal of this condition before it develops something more troublesome and difficult to cure. FRICK'S ASTER BITTERS is a reliable cure for constipation and disorders of similar character. It not only thoroughly empties the bowels, but strengthens the bowel channels and regulates the liver and stomach, hence it performs a radical cure. Sold by St. Bernard Druggists.

The Making of Good Coffee

Begins in the growing. Anywhere between the plantation and the coffee pot the flavor may be changed, the quality spoiled by carelessness, inexperience, or unscrupulous methods. From the time Arbuckles' Coffee leaves the hands of the grower until it reaches the user in a sealed packet, it is handled with the same watchful care, the same thought for cleanliness, that you would give any article of food that goes on your table. That's the reason it costs the grocer a cent a pound more than his cheap imitations. The extra cent you pay for

THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION AT BUFFALO, N. Y., OFFICIALLY OPENED AND DEDICATED.

PRECEDED BY A BRILLIANT PARADE.

The Grand Temple of Music, Where the Dedication Exercises were Held, Crowded with a Brilliant and Representative Assembly of Notable Persons.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 21.—In the presence of a vast concourse of people, with ceremonies both conventional and novel, the Pan-American exposition was dedicated formally yesterday. The day was fair, and the incursions, energetic men who planned this great enterprise rejoice in flattering success.

The day began with a parade in which there were men from nearly every country in the world, and ended with an aerial bombardment from flying bombs and a brilliant electrical illumination. Between the two were the formal exercises of the dedication, with oratory that took its theme from the lesson of the time, prayer for right, music, song and poetry.

The city was bright in time of flags and bunting, the exposition ground was brilliant in color, the moving crowds were in holiday garb, and the general effect was highly pleasing. The record of attendance for the day was fully up to the expectations of the most enthusiastic. There were no complaints over delayed exhibits, for there were spectacular things enough to weary the most ardent sightseer by the close of night.

The Military Parade.
The procession that formed at the city hall and marched to the exposition grounds, was an interesting spectacle, and thousands of people lined the route. The day was bright, and the clouds, with a victory for the former.

As the procession formed there was a reception of distinguished visitors, foreign representatives, state commissioners, officers and officials at the city hall. Vice-President Roosevelt was the guest of honor, and when he reached the hall the parade was started with a volley of aerial bombs. Two thousand troops led the way, and after them were bands of music, and with the officials and guests. Behind them came the concessionaires to the midway, Western Indians mingled with the children of the Orient, the Orient, and the Mediterranean, and gave the procession its truest touch of color. They were in the city hall, and a score of artistic floats, and 15 bands furnished the music.

The Dedication Ceremonies.
The formal dedication exercises, in the presence of a crowd limited only by the size of the hall, were impressive. There were strong words for closer union among the American peoples, and the remarks of Vice-President Roosevelt on that point and the congratulatory telegrams from the presidents of the American republics excited the greatest enthusiasm. All of the American republics were represented at the dedication and their military attaches and commissioners were given conspicuous places in the group of special guests. Friendly expressions came by cable from national neighbors, and the local editors rejoiced in the kindly feeling and interest shown.

The exercises began at 12:45 p. m., with the reading of the Declaration of Independence by the Seventy-first Regiment band.

The Speeches.
The venerable Bishop Charles H. Fowler, led in prayer before an audience stifled and bowed. President Milburn read a series of congratulatory telegrams and his reading provoked cheer upon cheer. Robert Cameron Rogers recited a poem.

The Orpheus society gave a magnificent rendering of Sturms' Naive Libertas, and then Vice-President Roosevelt was presented. He was vigorously cheered and made several attempts to speak before he found quieted auditors.

Enrico de Agorosa sang the prelude from "Pagliacci" and Senator Lodge was presented. He, too, was very cordially welcomed. When he had finished Frederic Almy read a poem.

Lieut. Gov. Timothy Woodruff then spoke, and after he had concluded the chorus audience and band united in "America."

The benediction was by Bishop William D. Walker. The closing music number was an inspiring march rendered by the Seventy-first Regiment band.

LAUNCHING OF THE OHIO.

The Magnificent Sea Monster Successfully Launched at San Francisco.

THE PRESIDENT WAS ABLE TO ATTEND.

A Taken From Union Iron Works Employees. Mrs. Barber Acted For Mrs. McKinley in Releasing the Ship, and Miss Deahler Performing the Act of Christening.

San Francisco, May 19.—Fortunate by Mrs. McKinley's condition, yesterday permitted the president to attend the launching of the battleship Ohio from the yards of the Union iron works. To witness the launching of this ship, named in honor of his congressional district, was the president's long trip across this continent and was the event which had attracted to the Pacific coast the governors of three states, the Ohio legislature, the district court of the United States senators and many other notable and distinguished people.

When the president left the sick room and his condition, yesterday arrangement had been made to notify him on the instant any change for the worse in his condition. The physicians assumed him to be in the indication of a setback, but at his request telegraphic connections were made at the wharf and, at the ship yard, and he was able to attend the water he was not for a minute away from direct connection with the Scott residence.

The representative of the 4,500 employees of the Union iron works, in a speech, in which he asked a heartfelt blessing upon the head of the president and expressed sympathy for his suffering wife, presented the president, as a token of the esteem of the workmen, with a gold plate engraved with a suitable inscription. The president's response aroused much enthusiasm. He told his audience of his friendship for the workmen, during his entire public career and touched the hearts of the cheering crowd before him as he spoke eloquently of the patriotic response to the call for men and money during the Spanish war. Many eyes were wet and more than one of the workmen made a spontaneous movement with his hand as if to brush away his emotion.

Then came the launching. A platform had been built upon the side of the big iron monster which lay in the very slip in which the famous Oregon was built and from which President Harrison launched the ship. Monterey ten years ago. Gathered on the platform were the president and members of the cabinet, Gov. Nash of Ohio, Miss Deahler, his niece, who was to christen the ship; Miss Barber, who was to act for Mrs. McKinley, and many uniformed officers of the army and navy. Immediately after the ship was a red-acted band. Below workers were knocking away the last keel blocks until the great steel hull lay upon her cradle, and a single beam, set like a trigger, held her ready to fall aside at a blow, held her in place. Miss Barber and the president stood before the electric application which controlled the galliot that was to sever the rope which would loose the weight that was to break and thus last beam, and a trigger, with her finger on the button, was looking intently at the indicator. At 12:29, two and a half minutes before the ship was to be launched, the time set for the launching, there suddenly shot into the face of the indicator the word "ready." Miss Barber pressed the button. The last block fell away.

At the same time Miss Deahler, a young lady of 17, in a light gown with her hair braided down her back, in schoolgirl fashion, let go of the bottle of champagne suspended at the side of the bow by a red, white and blue ribbon, and as it crashed into the side she uttered the words, "I christen thee Ohio."

Released from its bonds the heavy hull of 14,000 tons set itself plunging through the thick green of its cradle. Slowly at first, then faster and faster she slid down the ways, taking the flood majestically and piling up the water in great waves before her.

The land crashed, whistles blew and the multitudes shouted. No ship ever given to the American navy has taken her initial plunge into the sea under more favorable auspices or in the presence of a more distinguished company.

SGROFULA AND ITS AWFUL HORRORS CURED BY JOHNSTON'S Sarsaparilla QUART BOTTLES. A MOST WONDERFUL CURE.

A Grand Old Lady Gives Her Experience.

Mrs. Thankful Orilla Hurd lives in the beautiful village of Brighton, Livingston Co., Mich. This venerable and highly respected lady was born in the year 1816, of the great war, in Helton, Washington Co., New York. She came to Michigan in 1840, the year of "Tippecanoe" and Tyler too. All her faculties are excellently preserved, and possessing a very retentive memory, her mind is full of interesting reminiscences of early life, of the early days of the State of Michigan and the interesting and remarkable people she has met, and the stirring events of which she was a witness. But nothing in her varied and manifold recollections are more marvelous and worthy of attention than her experiences in the use of JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. Mrs. Hurd inherited a tendency and predisposition to scrofula, that terribly destructive blood taint which has cursed and is cursing the lives of thousands and marking thousands more as victims of the death angel. Transmitted from generation to generation, it is found in nearly every family in one form or another. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in unsightly swellings in the neck or groin, or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may be known as eczema in the head, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is, the prime cause of consumption.

Speaking of her case, Mrs. Hurd says: "I was troubled for many years with a bad skin disease. My arms and limbs would break out in a mass of sores, discharging yellow matter. My neck began to swell and became very unsightly in appearance. My body was covered with scrofulous eruptions. My eyes were also greatly inflamed and weakened, and they pained me very much. My blood was in a very bad condition and my head ached severely at frequent intervals, and I had no appetite. I had sores also in my ears. I was in a miserable condition. I had tried every remedy that had been recommended, and doctor after doctor had failed. One of the best physicians in the state told me I must die of scrofulous consumption, as the internal abscesses were beginning to form. I at length was told of Dr. Johnston, of Detroit, and his famous Sarsaparilla. I tried a bottle, more as an experiment than anything else, as I had no faith in it, and greatly to my agreeable surprise, it began to grow better. You can be sure I kept on taking it. I took a great many bottles. But I steadily improved until I became entirely well. All the sores healed up, all the bad symptoms disappeared. I gained perfect health, and I have never been troubled with scrofula since. Of course an old lady of 83 years is not a young woman, but I have had remarkably good health since then, and I firmly believe that JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA is the greatest blood purifier and the best medicine in the wide world, both for scrofula and as a spring medicine." This remarkably interesting old lady did not look to be more than sixty, and she repeated several times, "I believe my life was saved by JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA."

DOWN IN THE MINES.

There can be no doubt of the fact that when an order or organization resorts to non-violence it is in desperate straits. There is also seen that those who have heretofore been lukewarm in their opposition come out boldly against an order that relies upon non-violence for success. An example of this revolt of opinion can be found in one of our neighboring counties, since, a few days ago, a gang of U. M. W.'s, mobbed several non union miners who were merely on a visit to the county. Up to that time, many, to use a common expression, were on the fence, but at the outbreak of lawlessness, a change took place, and now they openly cry out against a policy which means rule or ruin.

Webster county has had to deal with these outbreaks. Hopkins county has had a similar experience and now Glenbeigh county becomes a victim.

Engineer James Kilroy of the St. Bernard Company, has been on the sick list for the last two weeks, some throat trouble being the cause. He has so far improved at this writing that he thinks he will again be ready for duty in a few days.

When the U. M. W.'s call people scabs, they don't seem to be aware of the fact that members of their own organization take advantage of every opportunity and take the place of men at very low wages. One of them, we understand, now works in a coal mine a short distance from here at a price far below that paid miners at all the mines in this county.

Another, we are told, is "scabbing" on carpenters by working at sixty cents per day. If it is honorable for the part of what they call a scab, how much more it is for men who have never allied themselves with the soup house brigade to work where others refuse to do so. Such acts by men who claim to be fighting for higher wages, shows insincerity on the face of it, and people who look quietly on at observers, are fast getting their eyes opened, when they see men work for fifty cents per day who quit a dollar per day job, to secure higher wages.

Distress of any kind arouses a sympathetic feeling within the hearts of those who are touched by suffering.

Last Saturday, when a member of the U. M. W., who had been at work on a farm near by came to the hands-on store and asked for his share of the contributions, and was plainly told there was nothing for him, tears filled his eyes and he sobbed like a child. A man crying for the necessities of life was a scene never before witnessed at this place, and never would be but for the presence of an organization that has placed a premium on idleness. Bystanders were touched and a small sum was donated for his relief.

The report of the United States Geological Survey, which will be published later in the year, approximately gives the total coal production of the United States, during the year 1900, at 263,228,308 tons of 2,000 pounds. This exceeds the United Kingdom of Great Britain by more than 11,000,000 tons.

The rumor is afloat that last Saturday morning when the colored members of the Hecla union, were to draw their rations, they were told there was nothing for them, but later in the day a small amount was given them. Here is another evidence of a well developed plot, to get these men to join the organization and then kick them out, and if possible drive them from the county.

Watchman Sutton, of the Seabree Coal Company, who a few days ago made Evansville a visit, severely had reached his hotel, before he was accosted in an insolent manner by two members of the U. M. W. who taking advantage of their number and the location resorted to the Seabree miners in an insulting way intimating that the people there were rather a tough set. The officer resented all insults and plainly told the fellows that the people of Seabree had no use for the gang of outcasts lately sent over there, and would die in an effort to protect their rights. This quelled them and they left without offering further insult.

Foreman Tomblis has been employed the past week on the repair and adjustment of the several St. Bernard Company's mine scales. The company keeps a close watch on their scales so that good and true weight can be given to the miner or coal loader.

The president of the St. Bernard Company, was called to Evansville last Friday on important business connected with the erecting of a glass factory which the citizens of that place contemplate building there soon.

It is reliably reported that since the Indiana invasion of Seabree the union men of the latter place have not sufficient standing or backing in that community to enable them to secure a house in which to hold their meetings.

Two hundred men employed in the Crown Pottery at Evansville went on strike last week because a workman who is also a stockholder in the concern refused to join the union and the management refused to discharge this stockholder.

United Mine Workers at Shamokin, Pa., still threaten to march in a body to the state capital if certain bills are not passed in their original form by the State Senate.

MISTAKE CORRECTED.

Rev. Geo. N. Hayes Will Not Retire From Active Work In Conference.

Through a misapprehension of resolutions reported passed at the recent Methodist district conference at Seabree with reference to Presiding Elder Geo. H. Hayes' last year in this district, THE BEE announced that he would not after this year continue in active work as in the past. This was an error. Rev. Hayes has spent four years continuously as presiding elder of the Henderson district and the law of the church necessitates a change of field next year. The pathetic parting and the resolutions incident thereto was because of this fact alone. Rev. Hayes has been and is one of the most active workers in the Louisville conference, notwithstanding his physical strength is not great.

The pupy was called begasse, which is left after the sugar-cane is crushed and squeezed dry of its saccharine matter, and formerly was burned and got rid of as a nuisance. It is now used for the manufacture of paper.

Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars For Arrest of Dynamiters.

The Monarch Coal Company has issued an offer of reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the man or men who attempted to blow up the colored boarding house at Monarch mines on the night of May 21st, at 11 o'clock.

Supposed Suicide of an Old Man.

Mr. John Gordon, who resided with his brother, Mr. T. Y. Gordon, a prosperous farmer who resides near here, ended his life by drowning himself in his brother's pond last Saturday morning. He was missed about noon and after a search was instituted his body was found in the pond. He was over eighty years of age and his enfeebled condition and despondent temperament is supposed to have caused him to tire of life. The burial took place Sunday evening, at the family burial ground, and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends.

The Bishop's Visitation.

Bishop McCoskey, of the Catholic Church, was here Monday, the guest of Father Cosken. The Bishop came in from the South Sunday night and left Monday afternoon. While here he confirmed twenty-five children, and several others were given their first communion. The sermon delivered by the distinguished churchman Monday morning was listened to by a large number of people.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup, or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you.
